

--ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A radio communication apparatus may receive transmit power control commands transmitted from a plurality of base station apparatuses and select a main base station apparatus having the best channel condition based on a history of received transmit power control commands. Thereafter, the apparatus transmits a signal using an error coding scheme and a modulation scheme provided by the selected main base station apparatus.--